THE INTERNET POWER OF UNIX IN A PC ENVIRONMENT.

If you have customers who spend most of their time in the PC world, the word UNIX may be a little intimidating at first. It's no wonder. For years, UNIX® was considered an extremely powerful—but sometimes overpowering—operating system.

Not any more.

SunSoft® is introducing a powerful new way to connect PC LANs to the Internet. It's a Compaq server with SunSoft's Internet Gateway for Solaris® software. And it allows your customers to get the proven Internet power of UNIX in a PC environment. This exciting new product is available only through Access Graphics, the premier provider of Internet solutions.

With this exclusive pairing of a Compaq ProLiant or Compaq ProSignia server from the world's leading PC manufacturer and SunSoft's Internet Gateway for Solaris software, PC users can now harness the awesome power of Sun, whose operating environment runs the majority of all Internet servers. And since Access Graphics is the world's largest Sun distributor, you won't find a more experienced or knowledgeable Internet source.

So if you're a VAR interested in offering a one-of-a-kind solution that delivers the Internet power of Solaris™ in a PC environment, call Access Graphics today at 1-800-733-9333 or e-mail us at AS6@access.com.
